Coaching style

My commitment to coaching derives from an abiding commitment to fairness in all walks of life. I have participated in movements, campaigns and societies that aim to achieve egalitarian goals and eliminate discrimination. I believe coaching is another process through which individuals can secure their own empowerment and liberation as they achieve their goals.

I want to help connect you with your own resourcefulness in order to meet and overcome challenges that may initially appear overwhelming.

I work to support you to feel empowered and to identify and achieve your aims and objectives in a timely and safe way.

Key skills

My knowledge, skills and experience include performance and financial management, research and data analysis, monitoring and evaluation, public sector commissioning, contract management, local governance and accountability, participation and engagement policies, strategies and procedures.

Career background

I work part time as the deputy CEO of a public health charity and previously led Sure Start in the west end of Newcastle.
